95 blankets donated to Cripple Centre

Patsy Bansropan knows the importance of keeping warm during winter.

It was a few years ago when she heard that horse blankets were being stolen off their backs, that she realised just how desperate people are to keep warm. Since then, it has been Mrs Bansropan's wish do provide warmth in the winter.

Along with her company, ArcelorMittal Foundation sponsored R10 000 towards a project to provide 95 blankets to the Madadeni Crippled Centre where there are about 92 needy children from all ages.

ArcelorMittal SHRQ Manager, Brian Cragg was asked to present it to the school's principal, Mrs DJ Nkosi.

"The children are well looked after, but their rooms are very cold during the night.

There are not enough heaters and as you know, it uses a lot of electricity.

These children are here because of parents who don't know how to look after them, parents who died and nobody else is there for them. The personnel of the Madadeni Crippled Centre are very special people, and the children look up to them for guidance and the parent they never had."
