

Accident hits Mittal's Kazakh mill

ALMATY | ArcelorMittal's Kazakh unit has said its second-quarter production was worse than expected after an accident in May. Rolled-steel output fell 15% to 712,900 tons from 839,700 tons a year earlier and less than the 715,600 tons produced in the first quarter. The company cut liquid-steel output 21% to 769,200 tons in the second quarter from a year earlier. Bloomberg
