

CALM, STORM, MEDALS & STEEL: The Olympic Stadium and the ArcelorMittal Orbit tower stand at the 2012 Olympic Park, in London, UK. Besides the gold medals won by South Africa's swimming sensations, Cameron van der Burgh and Chad le Clos, the Orbit also contains some steel from ArcelorMittal South Africa. Besides South African steel, the 1 500 t, 114.5-m-tall structure includes material from the bigger group's mills in Western and Eastern Europe, Asia, as well as North and South America.
