

London mayor mocks France

The Mayor of London Boris Johnson has described France's Socialist government as left-wing revolutionaries that were driving investors away in a dispute with steelmaker Arcelor-Mittal. The Conservative mayor mocked the French government as sans-culottes, a radical left-wing class during the French Revolution of 1789, while adding that British capital would welcome business fleeing from France.